THE CONCERT AND EXHIBITION AT

THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND

INSTITUTE.—It was our pleasure to attend the concert and exhibition given by the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb

and the Blind Institute on Tuesday evening.

The exercises consisted of a public examination of the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb, a few of the Junior classes in the Blind Department, and vocal and instrumental music by the blind pupils.

The members of the Legislature attended almost in a body, with the usually large delegation of our citizens.

The officers and teachers of the Institute were all on hand, and with a characteristic cordiality, received the many visitors and provided the usual complement of good seats, &c.

The examination of the Deaf and Dumb, with the remarks of the teachers,

Messrs. Tomlinson and Dudley, as to the manner of teaching, was peculiarly interesting and entertaining.

In the Blind Department, Mr. W. J.

Young and his accomplished lady are the principal teachers, supported by Miss Dupree and Mr. John Simpson, both blind and graduates of the Institution.

The vocal and instrumental music was very good, and, if any difference,

the latter is usually heard at school exhibitions.

Before the close of the exercises, Col.

J. T. Morehead, the President of the Senate, arose and on the part of many of his friends around him, returned the thanks of the audience to the officers and pupils of the Institution for the delightful entertainment given, and asked that one of the officers would come around with the hat that they might show their appreciation in a more substantial form—the funds received to be devoted to a Christmas fund for the poor unfortunate connected with the Institution.

Mr. Tomlinson returned the thanks of the pupils for the generous offer, and appointed Messrs. Leach and Young to hand around the hat.

We are pleased to say that quite a handsome sum was raised, sufficient for the purpose.

ADJOURNMENT TO DAY.—The Legislature adjourns this morning, until the 15th day of January next, after a session of thirty-one days. We wish each and all of the members a safe return

THE NORTH CAROLINA LEGIS-LATURE.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 19, 1872.

Senate met in Chamber at 11 o'clock

a. m., President Morehead in the Chair.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Mason.

The Journal of yesterday read and approved.

Reports from Standing Committees were presented by Messrs. Allen, Norwood, Todd and Davis.

A message was received from the House transmitting a number of engrossed resolutions and bills, asking the concurrence of the Senate, which were appropriately disposed of.

Introduction of Resolutions.

Mr. Cunningham, a resolution of instruction to the committee on Education, Tabled.

Mr. Seymour, a resolution of instruction to the Public Printer, relating to the printing of the laws as compiled by Judge Battle, as to whether the same should be printed for correction before they may be adopted by the General Assembly.

Questions discussed at some length, and on motion of Mr. Love it was postponed until the 16th of January.

The special order, House bill concerning the firing into trains was made the special order for the 22d January at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Cowles, a resolution instructing the Senate branch of the Printing Committee to report what contract they had made, with a view of its ratification or rejection.

Mr. Waring said the Committee was ready to report this morning as to the contract made, but could not see that,

under the act by which the contract was made, the Senate had any right to reconsider the action of the Committee.

The committee submitted for inspection the contract which they had made with Messrs. Stone & Uzzell, accompanied with a report.

Mr. Ellis, of Catawba, moved to accept the report.

Mr. Allen thought there was no way of annulling the contract, except by the repeal of the act creating the Committee. It was exceedingly questionable whether the Assembly could now exercise any control in the matter. This was the view taken last year, and this was the opinion held by a number of lawyers in the Senate.

Mr. Merrimon had the contract read, and upon finding that it was dated on the 16th inst., and the act empowering

the Committee being ratified on the 17th, he argued that the contract was of no effect, and he offered as an amendment that the committee on printing be instructed to make no contract for the public printing until further instructed by the General Assembly.

Harris, colored, objected to the amendment as being only technical.

The contract was undoubtedly in good faith, and he wanted to see the report accepted.

Mr. Waring argued that the powers of the Committee were absolute. They exercised their powers, and the objection did not reach the substance of the matter. The contract had not been delivered.

Mr. Merrimon argued that the objection was

FOR OPEN REPUTATION.

Maj. William A. Smith, of Johnston, Congressman-elect from this District, has recently published a letter in which he takes bold ground for the reputation of the State debt.

Major Smith, during the canvass last Summer, advocated, we are informed, the same ground, and he doubtless feels emboldened in view of his election, to urge still more strongly the peculiar views enunciated by him during the campaign.

If ever there was a time when reputation could be tolerated, that time is the present. The circumstances which surround us—the embarrassed and bankrupt condition of the State—the wholesale destruction of our property by the unforeseen events of the war—the unlawful and unauthorized manner in which our bonds have been issued and appropriated—the enormous and unprecedented increase of our debt under Radical management—these and various other causes have a decided tendency to prepare the public mind for such a proposition as that which has just been submitted in Major Smith's letter, namely, immediate and entire repudiation of every dollar that North Carolina owes her creditors.

Maj. Smith's arguments are plausible; but will not bear the test of thorough investigation. His policy may be popular in certain sections, but we do not believe it will meet with general approval.

In the first place, repudiation is directly in the face of the very language of the Federal Constitution. A State cannot pass a law to impair the obligations of contracts. This is expressly prohibited. So we are met at the threshold by a barrier that is insuperable.

In the second place, it is wrong in principle. The State ought to pay her just debts as far as her ability extends. Which classes of her bonds are just—which classes were issued in fraud and corruption—which were fraudulently disposed of and bought up—which were issued without proper authority and without proper consideration, are questions to be determined at the proper time.

We are for a compromise of our indebtedness. We are in favor of the alteration of that clause of our State Constitution which gives our creditors a perpetual mortgage on the real and personal property of North Carolina, and leaving the matter in the hands of the Legislature for settlement.

The present debt of the State is a burden too grievous to be borne. It hangs as an incubus upon the efforts of the people. It cramps them at every turn. It crushes their energies and drags them down by a system of onerous taxation that is intolerable in their present pecuniary embarrassments.

But repudiation is not the remedy needed or desired. Aside from its unconstitutionality, the people of North Carolina do not propose to evade the payment of honest debts while the State has some assets in hand. The main question to be decided are, what part of the indebtedness of the State has been honestly contracted, and how much the State is able to pay—taking into consideration her present condition and future prospects?

LET THERE BE NO STRIFE AMONG US.

The personal ambitions and petty spite of individuals sink into insignificance and nothingness when compared with the interests of the whole people and the welfare and prosperity of the State.

North Carolina has too much at stake—her interests are too precious—her rights too sacred, for personal wranglings and disputes to sow the seeds of dissension in the ranks of that political party upon the success of whose principles depend the hopes of the State, and into whose keeping alone should be entrusted her destinies and her honor.

The Radical party, while it had control of the Legislative department of the State Government, was guilty of an organized system of fraud and swindling which is unparalleled in the annals of legislation, and which will stand as an everlasting stigma of disgrace and crime upon the statute books of North Carolina.

If such a party should ever be again trusted with the absolute control in the State, then there will be no security from outrage—no check against corruption—no safeguard against usurpation—no protection for the most sacred rights of person and property.

In order to keep the Radical party in subjection, it is necessary that there be a thorough union of its opponents and the utmost vigilance and energy on the part of all honest men who desire to see Radicalism overturned and kept under control.

For that reason, it behooves those who are true Conservatives to forget all private considerations, to banish all ill-considered passions, to preserve the purity and integrity of their party and to adhere to its organization.

There should be no strife among those who profess to belong to the same political faith. We must fight the common enemy, and not waste ammunition on those who have enlisted under the same political banner with ourselves. We must keep in the line of organization. We must be prepared to yield our personal feelings when they come in contact with the harmony and unity of the party. We must surrender our prejudices when they threaten its disintegration and ruin. We must hush the voice of discord in our ranks and fight our opponents inside of our party lines.

If there have been ill-feelings engendered, if passion and impulse have alienated those who should be standing shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart in a common struggle for the welfare and highest interests of North Carolina, let strife be buried and bickerings cease, in view of the paramount obligations resting upon each individual member of the Conservative party to keep the organization intact, if the party is to be preserved from dismemberment and destruction.

One of the first subjects that will engage the attention of the Legislature when it returns after the recess, will be the amendments proposed to the Constitution of the State. It is known that several of the leading Radicals, while they are unwilling to vote for the bill of amendments as a whole, are in favor of several of the changes proposed. The Conservatives have not a two-thirds vote in the House of Representatives, and therefore it is necessary to look to the Republican side for assistance.

Certain changes in the present Constitution are so imperatively demanded that the people, without distinction of party, ask that they be made at the earliest practicable moment.

If, therefore, the bill to amend the Constitution cannot be passed as a whole, then the question comes up, has the Legislature the right to separate the several amendments, and vote upon their separation?

The Judiciary Committee have the matter under consideration, and will report the result of their conclusions when the Legislature meets in January.

Eminent legal gentlemen differ in their opinion as to the power of the Legislature to separate the amendments. Some contend that the bill must be voted for as a whole, in the manner and form in which it passed the last Legislature. Others, equally as able and distinguished as the last, hold that such separation is not essential—that each amendment specified in the bill can be considered on its own merits and voted on distinctly, provided no alteration or change is proposed—and that the Legislature can reject a part and accept a part of the proposed amendments.

General Lee at the Grave of Stonewall Jackson—A Beautiful Chromo.

There is now on exhibition in the sales and display rooms of Messrs. Louis Eckhardt & Bros., on the South-west corner of Baltimore and Sharp streets, a beautiful Chromo, representing "General Lee's last visit to the grave of Stonewall Jackson," which has just been published by direction of this enterprising firm. The chromo is from an original painting, executed expressly for the purpose by Professor Volcke, of the Maryland Academy of Art, for the Messrs. Eckhardt & Bros. As a work of art the painting has been declared by connoisseurs to possess real merit.

The simple tomb of the great military chieftain, with its neat iron railing and surrounding shrubbery, is shown, near which is an admirable portrait of General Lee, in the act of placing a bouquet on the grave of his former friend and comrade. The likeness of General Lee is pronounced by many of our best artists a perfect representation of the distinguished gentleman. He is standing with the flowers in his hand, which is extended towards the grave. The chromo is a faithful imitation of the original, and when placed together, it is difficult for any but an experienced person to distinguish a difference between them. The chromos are framed in a variety of styles, from the simplest to the most costly, and already large orders for them for different points in the South have been filled. The many admirers and friends of the two military heroes are thus afforded an opportunity of possessing in an admirable manner, a life-like portrait of one, and a sketch of the "earthly tabernacle" of the other.—Baltimore Gazette.

The Chicago and the Boston fires have been the harvest-field of innumerable postcards. "Fire" and "dirt" have become almost as familiar to us as "love" and "loyalty." The flames have "cleared away" the "old-fashioned" and the "unbridled license of description has rivalled Poe's unfortunate image of the flame striving to reach the "pale-faced moon" in "The Belles." When a master hand touches the chords, however, how calmly, with what a sense of power, and the aptness of imagery, he ignores all the common places, and strikes out a bold and original path for himself. Here is part of "After the Fire," a short poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes in the Atlantic, a perfect picture, though divorced from its proper setting:

On roof and wall, on dome and spire,
Flashed the false jewels of the fire;
Girl with her belt of glittering pines,
And crowned with starry gleams of vines,
Our northern queen in glory shone
With new-born splendor, not her own.
And stood, transfixed in our eyes,
A victim needed for sacrifice.

G. FLOYD O'BRYON, M. D.

Specialist in Chronic Diseases, Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Stomach Treatment with MEDICAL OXYGEN.
ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Dr. O'Brien desires to call attention to a new scientific and successful remedy for the treatment and cure of Consumption, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh and Nervous Debility.

All affections of the air passages, and all impurities of the blood arising from defective nutrition, the use of this Oxygen, and healing influences through the blood, without producing any constitutional changes. The sensations from its administration are positively of a pleasurable kind. It is a significant fact, that dyspepsia, as well as Consumption, increase in weight from the very commencement of this treatment.

In regard to consumption, the treatment of oxygen is so obviously appropriate that little need be said in its advocacy, more than to remark, that its success in curing this disease, not only in its early stages, but many cases far advanced, has surpassed the most sanguine hopes of those who employed it.

A PAMPHLET,

giving a full exposition of this new remedy, furnished to all on application.
In addition to the enclosed amount of oxygen, $2.50

Electrotherapy, Hydropathy, Swedish Movements and Medicines.

In addition to the diseases given above, the Doctor treats all chronic diseases, such as Rheumatism, Diarrhea, Scrophula, Gleet, Syphilis, Cancer, Gout, and

ALL FEMALE DISEASES.

The following diseases can be treated and cured by mail, and unless cured the money will be refunded to the patient:
SCIENTIA—relieved in ten minutes and cured in seven days.
PILLS, of no matter how long standing, cured in two weeks.
NEURALGIA, relieved in five minutes and permanently cured in seven days.
DYSPEPSIA permanently cured in from one to two months.
FITTS generally disappear after a few doses of medicine.

ALL FEMALE DISEASES

successfully treated by a new and improved method.

YOUNG MEN

who are suffering from nervous debility and a long list of distressing symptoms, cured by early indiscretions successfully treated.

Persons sending for medicine must write all their symptoms in a plain hand. No attention paid to letters asking for medicine unless there is a fee of two dollars enclosed, which is the charge demanded for each prescription.

Invalids visiting Asheville for treatment can obtain good board at the hotels and boarding houses near the office, at the rate of $20 to $25 per month.

STATE NEWS.

Pork sells at $6.50 at Rutherfordton for large hogs.

Dressed chickens sell in Wilmington at from 60 to 80 cents per pair.

The Wilmington papers complain that the wood brought to that city is not of the standard length.

DAVID TESNER of Rutherfordton county raised a Spanish potato this year weighing eight pounds.

A man offered the Rutherfordton Frederick fifteen cents for a three dollar job of printing. Liberal!

Eggs retail in Wilmington at 45 cents per dozen, and in Jefferson, Ashe county, at 10 cents. Chance for a speculation here.

JAMES NANNY of Rutherfordton county, is saving a 65 pound watermelon for Christmas, so says the Frederick.

The young ladies and gentlemen of Christ Church, in Newbern, will give an entertainment consisting of Pantomimes and Charades during the Christmas holidays, for the benefit of the Episcopal Church.

The Statesville Intelligencer says the County Commissioners of Iredell refused to grant further license to parties in town to retail spirituous liquors within the corporation after the present license has expired.

The Fayetteville Engle says: We still see geese in small gangs occasionally on the streets. When they were here in such immense numbers a few months ago, we were glad to hear that a large number were stolen or killed. We would again invite all freedmen who need a Christmas dinner, or any kind of lunch or snack to come forward and catch on our streets as many geese as he wants. No one need fear the law for taking one of these geese.

The Fayetteville Engle, speaking of the small pox, says: "We still hear that people many miles away in the country are still to believe that the small pox is in Fayetteville. We again repeat there has been no case of small pox in or near this town. The disease has been confined to that neighborhood in Harriet, where it first appeared, and where, as we learned yesterday, nearly all the cases are recovering. We believe all of these are 20 miles or more from here. A few old women, also some Africans, as well as others more sensible of our people, felt a little alarmed some weeks ago when it became known there were so many cases in Harriet. A sort of panic is always caused in this way, rather than that, there is nobody hurt. Every effort is being made, and successfully too, to prevent the spread of the disease in Harriet."

The Wilmington Star says: We are gratified to learn that a subscription list to obtain funds for the families of the five pilots of Smithville who, it is now considered certain, perished in the attempt to board certain vessels off the coast on Wednesday morning last, was opened yesterday morning at the office of Messrs. Northrop & Cumming, on West Street, where all who are disposed to aid the unfortunate sufferers by the terrible calamity which has saddened all our hearts, can call and affix their names, with whatever amounts they may feel able to give. Deprived thus, by a sad misfortune, of those to whom they have heretofore looked for support, they will most certainly suffer unless some outside assistance is tendered them, especially during the severe winter which is now upon us. In fact we learn that Mrs. Brickman, especially, is in very destitute circumstances, her house having been destroyed by fire a few days before the disappearance of her husband. As you would that others should do unto you, do ye even so unto them, is a scriptural injunction which will apply very well in this case.

[For the Daily News.]
A Change in the Revenue Laws Demanded.

To the General Assembly of North Carolina:

Permit me to call your attention to what I think is a glaring defect or omission in the Revenue Laws of the State, which I know is often engineered to the detriment of the State and for private gain. I allude to the law of 1870, chapter 227, section 13, and particularly and especially to section 13 under said schedule. The same objection applies to the whole of said schedule, but I allude to that section because there is perhaps a larger tax collected under it than the others.

Take then for illustration the mercantile tax under this section. The Sheriff goes around quarterly, collects, gives each payer a receipt, reports an aggregate amount to the Register of Deeds, and an aggregate amount is reported and forwarded to the State Treasury. What is to hinder the Sheriff from abstracting therefrom and appropriating to his own use one third or one fourth, and if he does so, as may be often the case, how is he to be detected? He might be detected by all the merchants collecting together and comparing receipts or by some one taking it upon himself to go over the county and ascertaining the amount, both of which seem to me to be absurd. This seems to me to be the only way. There is no assessment, and consequently no tax list, no memorandum, and no record of any kind to which experience can be had to calculate and ascertain the truth of his return. I say this, that under the law as it now is, in a large and populous county where there are a large number of merchants, and this tax larger, a sheriff can amount to his own use one third or one fourth of said tax, and those similar, and it would be next to impossible to detect it upon him. Thousands and tens of thousands of dollars are annually lost in that way between the pockets of the people and the Treasury. It is equivalent to placing a large portion of the State revenue at the absolute disposal of the sheriffs. To say that all sheriffs are honest (for upon that it must depend) is to acknowledge oneself a fool, or a knave. The whole of said schedule comes under the same rule, proper accounting for the whole tax collected depends solely upon the honesty of the sheriff, and if he chooses not to account for it, it is next to impossible to detect him out.

I know large sums of money are pilfered in that way. It has come under my own knowledge, and as the law now stands there is no remedy.

Temporarily—Anecdotal statute by requiring the sheriffs to return a sworn statement of the names of parties who have paid tax under said schedule, and the amounts so paid to the Register of Deeds within 30 days (or other specified time) after the end of each quarter, which he shall record in a book kept for that purpose, and which shall be subject to inspection free of charge by all who desire to do so; and said sworn statements shall be filed in the register's office and he made responsible for their safe custody.

And the Register of Deeds within 30 days after the receipt of such statement shall post at the court house door and three other places in the county a true copy of the same with his certificate of its correctness.

Then attach a heavy pecuniary penalty and make it a misdemeanor in both sheriff and register, and a forfeiture of and disqualification to hold office upon conviction and make the sheriff also indictable for perjury for a false return.

Many merchants do not account for a large share of taxes or pay taxes for the reason that under the present system no one knows the amount but himself and the sheriff. By amending the law somewhat in the above manner it will have a good effect upon the taxpayer as well as the sheriff, so far as the State and county are concerned.

As it is the merchant by collusion with the sheriff or it the sheriff happens to be a merchant, in either case as in many other ways no taxes need be paid and it cannot be ascertained.

Make public in some way the amounts paid under this schedule, and you will not only check a terrible evil and outrage, but save the State tens of thousands of dollars annually.

Railroad Slaughter in Jersey—Two Men Crushed Between Cars—One Instantly Killed.

It is most worthy of notice that at the very time the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are contending in the Court of Chancery of New Jersey against free competition hardly a day elapses but a human being is killed on that railroad. Yesterday forenoon an accident occurred which resulted in the instant death of one man and fatal injury to another. Two carpenters, John Miller and Michael Glaski, were employed in repairing cars on the track, between Hudson and Greco streets, near the depot in Jersey City. While they were thus engaged at a car switched off to a side track Ashley Hicks, the engineer of locomotive No. 706, backed down his engine, driving car No. 91 before it, and crushing the two men between that and the car they were repairing. Miller was so frightfully mangled that he died in a few moments, and Glaski was fatally injured. Hicks was arrested and held to await the result of the Coroner's inquest. Poor Miller leaves six children. He buried his wife but a short time ago. Mayor O'Neill told the Assistant Superintendent of the railroad that if some protection be not afforded the citizens at the crossings in Jersey City a riot is inevitable. What makes the case more aggravating is that this injury is exempt from taxation. —N. Y. Herald.

Ammonia and sulphate of ammonia are used abundantly and profitably manufactured from the waste water of the gas works. The sulphate is largely used in fertilizers.

The bequest of Mr. Horace Hawes, of San Francisco, of $1,000,000 to found a college, has been declared invalid, on the ground of the testator's insanity.

The usury laws are abolished in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Mormons have three powder mills, a cartridge factory and a large arsenal.

Now the London Times is going to send out a Livingstone expedition.
